Song School Spanish

At Classical Academic Press we do not merely create instructional textbooks, we create complete sets of learning tools designed to make teaching and learning both accessible and delightful. For each subject we start with a core text: the student book. We then provide several support materials to give all the aid that a teacher or student could need to feel confident as they master the subject together. These products are all listed below so that you can see a complete view of the entire curriculum. In addition, we created an entire website, HeadventureLand.com, which offers free educational games, videos, and ebooks where students can practice the subject they are learning.

The Student Text: filled with the lessons and exercises that are the student's primary contact with the material. A lively musical CD is a delightful piece of the program and comes in the back of each student text.

The Teacher's Edition: includes the student text, answer keys, teacher's notes, and over 40 pages of extra activities keyed to each chapter. Don't reinvent the wheel, let experienced teachers show you their best approaches and practices to this material.

Flashcards: these bright cards are not only straight flashcards, but games that you can play traditional card games with—memory, go fish, and others. Who said that rigorous learning isn't fun?

Introduction

to the Teacher's Edition

In addition to this introduction, we encourage you to also read the introduction to the student edition of Song School Spanish, which you will find on page 8 of this book.

Welcome to Song School Spanish!

This teacher's edition (TE) has been designed to help you easily and effectively use Song School Spanish to introduce young students to the Spanish language. The TE contains the complete text of the student edition (SE) but also contains several other important elements, including:

- Answer Key: Answers to all questions, exercises, puzzles, and activities are provided in the TE on the same pages as the SE for easy and quick assessment.
- Teaching Tips: Suggestions, guidance, and ideas for how to use the text are provided throughout the TE.
- Additional Activities and Practice: This TE contains over forty pages of additional activities and exercises corresponding to each chapter in the SE. These extra activities can be assigned as supplemental work for older or advanced students or for enthusiastic learners who simply want more Spanish study. See pages 85-126 to review these activities and pages 127 and following for the answer key to these activities. The activity pages may be photocopied for use in a class or family.

Target Grade Range of Song School Spanish

Song School Spanish has been designed for use by students in grades K-2. Kindergarten students can successfully use this curriculum, but will rely more on the audio CD (included in the SE) than they will the workbook, as their reading and writing skills are just emerging. First-grade students will need moderate writing and reading help, depending on their ability level. Most second-grade students should be able to work quite independently with the book.

The Teaching Method of Song School Spanish

Classical Academic Press has designed our Song School line of curricula to take advantage of the natural capacity of young children to learn and master language by song and chant as well as by reading, writing, listening, and speaking. The audio CD, therefore, is a key means to teaching the course, and the songs and chants should be played and sung/chanted frequently. Song School Spanish contains at least one song/chant per chapter that teaches Spanish vocabulary and some conversational phrases in a way that children will enjoy and mimic. For a language to be learned well, it is best to study it regularly in shorter segments of time rather than occasionally in longer segments. We encourage you, therefore, to have students review Spanish vocabulary and phrases frequently and to play the audio CD at home and even while traveling in the car. Soon students will be singing the catchy songs throughout the day—and so will you!

Additional Resources

Classical Academic Press has designed several resources that supplement Song School Spanish. Please review and consider using the following:

- HeadventureLand.com: This is a free student-support website where students can practice their Spanish vocabulary using an online game called FlashDash: Song School Spanish. The game provides a chapter-by-chapter review of Song School Spanish vocabulary and gives students the opportunity to compete for monthly high scores with other students from around the world. We highly recommend this site as another means of aiding students in mastering Spanish vocabulary.
- Spanish Amigo Match: These cards, which contain all of the vocabulary from Song School Spanish, play like the Memory Game in which students seek to match one Spanish card with its English twin. The cards can also be used as typical vocabulary flash cards. You may see a sample of these cards on the product page for Song School Spanish at ClassicalAcademicPress.com.
- Spanish Pronunciation Files: While the Song School Spanish audio CD teaches Spanish pronunciation well, it is also helpful to hear the vocabulary for each chapter pronounced. To download MP3 files of all of the vocabulary being pronounced, visit the Song School Spanish product page at ClassicalAcademicPress.com.
- Extra Songs: In addition to the audio CD bound into the SE, you can also find more downloadable Spanish songs on the Song School Spanish product page of ClassicalAcademicPress.com.
- Ask the Magister/Maestro: Parents and teachers may ask questions about this text and seek guidance from other Spanish teachers by clicking the “Ask the Magister” link on the front page of ClassicalAcademicPress.com.

Other Song School Products from Classical Academic Press

If your students enjoy Song School Spanish, we encourage you also to review our other Song School curricula, including Song School Latin, Book 1, Song School Latin, Book 2 (forthcoming, Fall 2012), and Song School Greek.

A Suggested Schedule for Teaching Song School Spanish

Song School Spanish was designed to be flexible and easy to teach in various settings. It can be taught once a week in a gathered class (for about forty-five to sixty minutes) with students doing some workbook activities at home (with parental guidance) and listening to the audio CD between sessions. However, our suggested method consists of more frequent study in shorter time segments. Therefore, we generally recommend a three-to-four day rhythm with the student doing some of the workbook exercises and singing/chanting along with the audio CD during each session. Each of these sessions should only take ten to twenty minutes. We also recommend that students play the audio CD around the home, in the classroom, and in the car, which will aid them in learning much even without the workbook. What follows is a generic, three-day (or three-session) schedule that teachers and parents can easily adapt to other rhythms and patterns.

Day One: Have students study the first page and read out loud all the new Spanish words/phrases for the week. For proper pronunciation, students should listen to the audio file of the Spanish words/phrases being spoken. These files can be downloaded from the Song School Spanish page of ClassicalAcademicPress.com. Then students should listen to the chapter song(s)/chant(s) on the audio CD. The songs and chants will help them to remember the words and pronounce them correctly.

Day Two: Have students review the chapter's Spanish words/phrases once more and practice speaking them, both by reading them out loud and by speaking them from memory. Have students practice speaking the words to another student or to you or a parent. Next, students should sing/chant along with the CD and also see if they can sing/chant from memory. Students should then read the chapter lesson in the book and do any exercises that follow it, being sure to stop when they reach the Show What You Know section—they'll do that section during the third lesson. End the lesson by having students recite from memory all the Spanish words/phrases in the chapter and having them sing/chant the song(s)/chant(s) from memory, too.

Day Three: Have the students, from memory, say out loud all of the chapter's Spanish words/phrases. Next they should sing/chant the song(s)/chant(s) from memory and then sing/chant along with the audio CD a couple of times. It is also a good idea to have them review the songs/chants from past chapters, an activity students should find enjoyable. Finally, have students do the Show What You Know section and finish the chapter.

Enjoy your journey with Song School Spanish!

Gracias,

Christopher A. Perrin, Ph.D.

Introduction

Bienvenidos a “Song School,” a place for you and your students to have fun acquiring Spanish vocabulary and learning the basics of language acquisition. This book is designed to lay the foundation of a strong vocabulary in Spanish, taking advantage of young children’s incredible capacity for memorization and the fun they can have singing and chanting. Through songs, games, and simple workbook activities, students will learn 106 vocabulary words as well as some conversational Spanish.

Schedule and Pacing

The book is designed for your class to cover one chapter a week, completing thirty-one chapters during a September-May school year. Review chapters are built in every few weeks to help students master the content before moving on, and most chapters end with a small review of words from earlier in the text. Memorizing the songs works well as part of a daily classroom routine, and students should be encouraged to listen to the CD in the car and at home. The workbook pages can be completed in one class period (for Spanish teachers who see their classes once a week for a full school period) or with 10-15 minutes per day, spread over the school week.

Chapter Lessons & Grammar

A secondary goal of this text is to gently open children’s eyes to the process of language learning. The chapter lessons address some of the frustrations students have when they first begin studying a language—for example, dismay at encountering a phrase in Spanish that has fewer words than its English translation. Many students are surprised to find that foreign languages have different rules than English does—some are even surprised to find that language has rules at all. Our hope is that your students will find these new rules exotic and intriguing, rather than an obstacle to surmount.

To create this level of comfort and interest in studying grammar, the few “rules” that are touched on here are treated very generally. We’ve chosen to focus on gender agreement, an aspect of Spanish grammar that will be new for native speakers of English. Students will also see some of their vocabulary words manipulated within the contexts of the songs to implicitly provide information about how those words are used. For example, some words will be taught in the singular form, and then pluralized within a song.

A Note About Code Switching

Code switching is the linguistic term for changing languages mid-speech. In recent years, code switching has been discouraged in the language classroom, where teachers aim for a “full immersion” situation, and ask their students not to speak their native language. At Classical Academic Press, we believe in using a child’s native language as a scaffold to facilitate a more rapid acquisition of grammar concepts and vocabulary.

There is a significant amount of research on the phenomenon of code switching, establishing it as a common, and “natural,” occurrence in bilingual communities. In the songs and exercises in this book, we have attempted to respect the patterns of native-speaker code switching as much as possible, providing students with extra contextual information about how words are used in Spanish.

We hope you and your students have a great experience with Song School Spanish. Feel free to contact us at info@ClassicalAcademicPress.com with any questions about the text or the album.

Pronunciation Guide

Note to Teachers/Parents

Did you know that your students have an advantage over you? Because their young brains are still learning new sounds, it is much easier for them to learn the sounds associated with a different language. You should encourage your students to employ this natural ability by trying to mimic the sounds of the native Spanish speakers on the CD as a fun and organic way to learn Spanish pronunciation. The following guide is a great supplement to the CD and also an excellent reference for anyone who may want the differences in pronunciation made more explicit. The "Alphabet Song" (chapter 1) and "Spanish Vowels Song" (chapter 2) will give your students an opportunity to hear each letter's sound separately as well.

Spanish Consonants

The Spanish alphabet (the abecedario) has twenty-nine letters—twenty-four consonants and five vowels. The letters ch, ll, and ñ are the additional consonants that don't appear in the English alphabet. Some Spanish speakers also consider rr a letter (which would bring the count of letters in the abecedario from twenty-nine to thirty). Many sounds in Spanish are similar to the sounds made by the same letter in English, but are articulated in a slightly different way. The exceptions—letters pronounced differently—are listed below. (Note: A textbook or website discussing Spanish phonetics may be of use to anyone interested in a more in-depth look at how sounds are formed in Spanish.)*

Letter	Pronunciation	Example	Sound
c	like an English k in front of a , o , and u ; like an English s in front of i and e	casa (house) cena (dinner)	ka-sa se-na
ch	like the ch in cheese	leche (milk)	le-che
g	like an English g in front of a , o , and u ; like an English h in front of e and i	gato (cat) girar (to spin)	ga-to hec-rar
h	silent	horno (oven)	or-no
j	like an English h	pájaro (bird)	pa-ha-ro

*As of the printing of this book, the University of Iowa's phonetics website (<<http://www.uiowa.edu/~acadtech/phonetics/>>) is an excellent resource, with videos, sound, and animated diagrams of how the mouth makes different sounds. It covers Spanish and English (as well as German), which makes it helpful in explaining the differences in sounds between the languages.

Letter	Pronunciation	Example	Sound
ll	very similar to the English y	llama (flame, llama, he/she calls)	ya-ma
ñ	like the ny in canyon	niño (boy)	née-nyo
v	similar to an English b	vaca (cow)	ba-ca
z	in the Western Hemisphere, a z makes the sound of an English s ; in Spain, it makes a th sound such as in the word “think”	zorro (fox)	so-rro (Americas) tho-rro (Spain)

The Spanish R

In Spanish, both the double r and the single r are rolled at the beginning of a word. A single r in the middle of a word is a single tongue-tap, almost like an English d, and the rolled r is a bit like at least three d's in rapid succession. The sound can be made by holding your tongue to the roof of your mouth and exhaling forcefully.

Spanish Vowels

Letter	Pronunciation	Example	Sound
a	like the a in father	casa (house)	kah-sah*
e	see below
i	like the ee in keep	niño (boy)	née-nyo
o	like the long o in open	ocho (eight)	o-cho
u	like the oo in boots	uno (one)	oo-no

The e sound in Spanish is like a cross between the English e in pet and the ay in say. If an English speaker makes the sound in the word “say” and then draws it out very slowly, he or she will hear that the “ay” is actually two sounds—an “eh” sound (close to the sound in “pet,” but also a bit like a long “a” sound) followed by an “eeee” sound. The Spanish e is the English “ay” in “say” without the “eee” sound on the end. For more information, one of the many phonetics websites with audio examples may be helpful.

*The pronunciation of casa in this chart is spelled differently than it is in the consonant chart because the focus here is on the sound the Spanish a makes.

Accents

When there is an accent mark on a vowel, the syllable containing that accented vowel is the emphasized syllable. In Spanish words, the second-to-last syllable without an accent mark is emphasized when it ends in a vowel, s, or n. The last syllable is emphasized in unaccented Spanish words that end in consonants other than s and n. There are occasionally accent marks in Spanish that are on the syllable that would be accented naturally; these distinguish between homographs—words spelled the same but with different meanings (for example, si, which means “if,” and sí with an accent, which means “yes”).

Accented Syllable	Last Letter of Word	Example	Sound
Second-to-last	vowels, n , or s	casa (house) niños (boys)	KAH-sah NEE-nyos
Last	consonants other than n or s	comer (to eat) feliz (happy)	co-MER fe-LEES
Any accented syllable	any	pájaro (bird)	PAH-hah-ro

Diphthongs

In Spanish, the vowels i and u form diphthongs with other vowels. In other words, the sounds blend together into one syllable. Next to another vowel, i will make a y sound, such as in the English word “yellow,” and u will make a w sound, as in the English word “water.” The exception is when the i or u is accented. In that case, the accented letter does not blend into the other vowel and is pronounced as a separate syllable.

Examples: Diphthongs	adiós (good-bye)	viento (wind)	familia (family)	nueve (nine)
Sound	ah-DYOS	BYEN-to	fa-MEE-lyah	NWE-be
Examples: No Diphthongs	maestra (teacher)	día (day)
Sound	mah-E-stra	DEE-ah

Words to Learn

hola	hello
adiós	good-bye
el maestro ◊	male teacher
la maestra	female teacher
el estudiante ◊◊	student
los estudiantes	students

◊ Typically, Spanish teaching materials for English speakers list the Spanish definite articles (el, la, los, las) with Spanish nouns, but not with the English translations. Definite articles are used considerably more in Spanish than they are in English, and are often dropped in translation. So, it's acceptable to say that "family" is a translation for la familia. Definite articles are helpful in Spanish vocabulary lists, where they indicate the gender and number of the noun they modify. However, they can be unnecessary, and even cumbersome, in English, so we have chosen to adhere to the standard practice and only include the Spanish articles. Your students will see the disjunct between Spanish and English articles again, for example, in the "Como Song" in chapter 23. In that song, they will hear bebo el agua, which literally means "I drink the water," but is better translated as "I drink water."

◊◊ Estudiante, like many nouns in Spanish describing professions (such as artista—artist—and dentista—dentist) can be either masculine or feminine, depending on the gender of the person being described. We've listed estudiante with the masculine article (rather than listing el estudiante—boy student—and la estudiante—girl student) to avoid overwhelming younger students who are just getting their bearings as foreign-language learners. Once your students have learned about noun-article agreement (in chapter 16), you may want to review this word and point out that they can use la with estudiante when they're talking about a girl student.

Chapter Songs

Hola maestra Song [Track 1]

Chapter Lesson

Take a look at the letters of the Spanish alphabet in the “Alphabet Chant.” The Spanish alphabet looks a lot like the English alphabet, doesn't it? They are very similar, but in Spanish, there are three letters that we don't have in English: ch, ll, and ñ. That means that the Spanish alphabet has twenty-nine letters and the English alphabet only has twenty-six. Sometimes letters in Spanish make different sounds than they do in English. How will you know what sounds the letters make? You will know by listening to your teacher and to your songs!♦♦♦

Practice Your Spanish

1. Practice writing hola and maestra by tracing the dots.

hola
maestra

2. Practice writing the letters A through I by tracing the dots.

A B C CH D
E F G H I

3. In the box, draw a picture of your maestro or maestra.

♦♦♦The question of which letters are considered a part of the Spanish alphabet is a tricky one, with various authorities making different pronouncements on the subject. This text follows the Diccionario panhispánico de dudas, produced by the prestigious Real Academia Española and the Asociación de Academias de la Lengua Española as an attempt to codify a worldwide version of the Spanish language. This dictionary includes ch and ll as single letters because there is a one-to-one relationship between the written symbol and the spoken sound. However, it omits the rr as a letter because its sound (the rolled r) is also made by an r at the beginning of a word. If you prefer to teach the alphabet with the rr included, you could still use the song in this text, and explain to your students that there is a worldwide debate over which letters are in the Spanish alphabet. (Although the various language academies usually agree to a standard alphabet without the ch, ll, and rr, they continue to be used and taught.) If you choose to teach the rr as well, your students might even enjoy shouting it at the CD player at the point in the song where it “belongs” (right after the r). This may be a good opportunity to introduce them to the idea that there are often many different “correct” variations within a language. It can be particularly helpful for students of Spanish to be aware of this linguistic diversity, since some of the learning materials they come across may otherwise seem contradictory.

Your maestro/maestra

Play a Game

Find a friend to play this game with you. Stand near a door, a table, or a chair—something your friend can hide behind. Sing the first part of the “Greetings Song” to your friend:

¡Adiós, adiós!
¡Adiós, adiós!
I'll see you soon!”

Since you have just said good-bye, your friend should hide. Then he or she can pop out again and try to surprise you. As soon as she does, sing, ¡Hola, hola!

¡Hola, hola!
Glad that you came back!”

Take turns hiding and singing!

Chapter Story

Listen to your teacher read the story and fill in the blanks with either hola or adiós.

This is Conejo. ¡_____ Hola _____, Conejo! He is fast and likes to run races. One day, he challenged big, slow Tortuga to a race. This is Tortuga. ¡_____ Hola _____, Tortuga! As they began, Conejo ran far away into the distance. ¡_____ Adiós _____, Conejo! After running so hard, Conejo got tired and took a nap. While he slept, slow Tortuga caught up to him. ¡_____ Hola _____, Tortuga! But Tortuga didn't stop. She kept going. Soon she was far away. ¡_____ Adiós _____, Tortuga! When Conejo woke up, he ran after Tortuga, but it was too late. All of the animals watched Tortuga come toward the finish line and shouted, “_____ Hola _____, Tortuga!” Conejo was very sad that he lost and scurried down into his hole to hide. ¡_____ Adiós _____, Conejo!

Put On a Puppet Show

Cut out the Tortuga and Conejo puppets from page 159 in the back of the book. Sing the “Where’s Tortuga?” song and use the puppets to act it out as you sing! Here is a script:

You: ¿Dónde está Tortuga? ¿Dónde está Conejo?

Conejo: Here I am!

Tortuga: Here I am!

Conejo: ¡Ho-ola Tortuga!

Tortuga: ¡Ho-ola Conejo!

Conejo: Adiós

Tortuga: ¡Adiós!

◇◇◇◇This song can be done the same way as “Where Is Thumbkin?” (“Frère Jacques”). Students can hold a puppet in each hand and put their hands behind their backs. As they sing the song, they should wave the puppet that is “speaking.”

Chapter Lesson

By now you are probably noticing some things in Spanish that are different from English. For instance, you know that some letters make different sounds in Spanish than they do in English. Spanish vowels make different sounds than English vowels do, which is why this week you have a song that will help you practice Spanish vowel sounds.

◇Have the whole class learn the song by clapping for the name, as indicated in the lyrics. Then, once students have mastered the song, have them sing it through again, but this time you will substitute your name for the clapping while the rest of the class still sings and claps. Then when you sing, “¿Cómo te llamas?” point to one of the students. When the class sings, “¿Cómo te llamas?” again, that student points to a classmate and the song is sung again, with the classmate saying his or her name. The song is repeated until everyone has had a chance to fill in his or her name and ask someone else, “¿Cómo te llamas?”

You may have noticed something else about Spanish. Sometimes there is a little line over one of the vowels in a Spanish word. You can see an example of this in the question ¿Cómo te llamas? from the Words to Learn section of this chapter. Do you see the little line over the o in cómo? That little line is called an accent. In Spanish, an accent tells you which vowel to say the loudest. That means that the word adiós is pronounced “a-DYOS.” Accent marks are very important. If you forget to include them on accented words, you are not spelling those words properly!

Practice Your Spanish

1. Practice writing your new words by tracing the dots. Finish the sentence “Yo me llamo . . .” by writing your name in the blank provided.

¿Cómo te llamas?
Yo me llamo _____.

2. Practice writing the Spanish letters J through Q by tracing the dots.

J K L L L M N Ñ O P Q

3. Write an accent mark over each vowel by tracing the dots.

Á á É é Í í Ó ó Ú ú

4. Circle the words that have accent marks.

cómo hola adiós llamo maestra

5. Draw lines to match each English word/phrase to the corresponding Spanish word/phrase.

a. teacher	estudiantes
b. students	Yo me llamo . . .
c. hello	adiós
d. good-bye	maestra/maestro
e. What's your name?	hola
f. My name is . . .	¿Cómo te llamas?

Sing and Play

Get your Tortuga and Conejo puppets ready! It's time for them to sing the “Yo me llamo Song” (Track 6).

Tortuga: Yo me llamo Tortuga, Tortuga, Tortuga,
Yo me llamo Tortuga,
¿Cómo te llamas?

Conejo: Yo me llamo Conejo, Conejo, Conejo,
Yo me llamo Conejo,
¿Cómo te llamas?

You: Yo me llamo _____, _____, _____,
Yo me llamo _____,
¿Cómo te llamas?

When you're done singing with Conejo and Tortuga, sing with your friends! You'll need a ball to play this game. The first person starts out holding the ball and that person sings the song and puts in his or her name. When he sings, “¿Cómo te llamas?” he passes the ball to a friend. Then it's his friend's turn to sing the song and put her name in.

Chapter Lesson

Do you know how question marks and exclamation marks work in English? A question mark (?) is what you put at the end of a sentence that is a question. An exclamation point (!) is what you put at the end of a sentence that is an exclamation. An exclamation is something you say in an excited way.

In Spanish, we don't just put question marks and exclamation points at the end of a sentence. We put them at the beginning, too. That way, you'll know if a sentence is an exclamation or a question before you get to the end. In Spanish, the question marks and exclamation points at the beginning of a sentence are written upside-down, like this: ¿Cómo estás?⁰ 0If there are computers available for your class to use, you may want to teach your students how to type the Spanish punctuation and ñ. A quick Internet search should show you how it's done on the computers you are using.

Practice Your Spanish

1. Practice writing upside-down question marks by tracing the dots.

2. Practice writing upside-down exclamation points by tracing the dots.

3. Now practice your new Spanish phrases by tracing the dots. Make sure you remember the question marks, exclamation points, and accents.

4. Practice writing the Spanish letters R through Z by tracing the dots.

5. Look at the pictures and write the Spanish word that describes how each person feels.

a. She looks like she feels feliz.

b. She looks like she feels triste.

6. Draw a picture of your face and complete the sentence.

Estoy Answers will vary.

7. Fill in the Spanish word that fits best.

a. How do you feel when you get an ice-cream cone? feliz

b. How do you feel when you fall down and scrape your knee? triste

Ask a Friend

Ask three people how they are in Spanish and circle their responses. Ask them the question, "¿Cómo estás?"

Person 1: bien feliz triste

Answers will vary.

Person 2: bien feliz triste

Person 3: bien feliz triste

Show What You Know

In the following sentence, circle the correct Spanish word.

1. When you leave, you say: hola adiós

2. When you arrive, you say: hola adiós

3. The person who teaches you Spanish is a/an: maestro maestra estudiante

Answers will vary, but should be either maestro (male teacher) or maestra (female teacher).

Put On a Play

Tortuga is walking along the road one day when Conejo goes hopping by. Conejo stops just long enough to have this quick conversation with Tortuga. Get your puppets and act out the conversation! If you really learned your lessons, you may even be able to put on the whole puppet show by yourself!

- Conejo: ¡Hola!
- Tortuga: ¡Hola!
- Conejo: ¿Cómo te llamas?
- Tortuga: Yo me llamo Tortuga. ¿Cómo te llamas?
- Conejo: Yo me llamo Conejo. ¿Cómo estás?
- Tortuga: Estoy bien, gracias. ¿Cómo estás?
- Conejo: Estoy feliz. ¡Adiós!
- Tortuga: ¡Adiós!

There are a number of ways you could use the dialogue in class. With earlier readers, you could read the dialogue aloud yourself and act it out with your own puppets, and then have the students use their puppets while they listen to you read. You could also divide the class into two groups, and have one group say Conejo's lines and one group say Tortuga's lines. It would probably be easiest to teach one line at a time, and once the students have memorized that line, repeat the dialogue from the beginning, stopping at the end of the memorized section. Once the whole class has memorized the dialogue, you could call students up in groups of two to put on the puppet show. This is a good activity to review from time to time when you have a few extra minutes at the end of class. For homeschoolers, you and your child can act the dialogue out together, or your child can be coached to speak quickly for Conejo and slowly for Tortuga to show the difference in voices, and put the puppet show on by him- or herself.

Chapter Story

The Three Little Pigs

As your maestro or maestra reads this story to you, listen for the Spanish words and circle them.

Once upon a time, there were three little pigs. When they grew up, they left home to build their own houses. Adiós, little pigs!

The first little cerdo (pig) met a girl who was carrying a bundle of straw. ¡Hola! said the little cerdo. ¿Cómo te llamas?

The girl answered, Yo me llamo Susi."

The little cerdo said, "Would you please give me some straw so that I can build a house?" So Susi gave him some straw and the little cerdo started building his house. When he was finished, he heard a knock at the door. "Who is it? ¿Cómo te llamas?" he asked.

Yo me llamo Wolf," said the wolf. ¿Cómo estás?

¡Estoy bien!" said the little cerdo

"May I come in?" asked the wolf.

But the little cerdo knew the wolf was bad, so he said, "Not by the hair of my chinny-chin-chin!"

"Then I will huff and puff and blow your house in!" said the wolf. And he did.

The second little cerdo met a boy who was carrying a load of sticks. ¡Hola! said the little cerdo. ¿Cómo estás?

Estoy bien, the boy replied.

"I would like to have some sticks to build a house," said the little cerdo. So the boy gave him the sticks. When the cerdo finished building the house, guess who knocked on his door? The big bad wolf!

"Who's there? ¿Cómo te llamas?" asked the second cerdo

Yo me llamo Wolf."

"You can't come in!" said the cerdo. "Not by the hair of my chinny-chin-chin!"

"Then I will huff and puff and blow your house in!" the wolf howled. And he did!

The third little cerdo wanted a strong house. So, when he met a boy who was carrying a load of bricks, he said, ¡Hola!

¿Cómo estás?

¡Estoy triste! The boy said. "These bricks are too heavy for me! I do not want to carry them! Would you like to have some?" So the third little cerdo built his house of bricks.

Then the big bad wolf came along and knocked on his door. "Let me come in, little cerdo" he said.

"Not by the hair of my chinny-chin-chin!" said the little cerdo. "Then I will huff and puff and blow your house in!" said the wolf. And he huffed and he puffed and he huffed and he puffed, but he could not blow that house in. He went away, and the little cerdo was safe in his house. ¡Adiós! Wolf!

Point out to your students that ll is considered a single letter (for more information, see the teacher's note on page 12). To make it a bit easier for them, the ll's have been filled in.

Across

- 1. What's your name? ¿Cómo te llamas?
- 5. sad triste
- 7. How are you? ¿Cómo estas?
- 10. well, fine bien
- 11. hello hola
- 12. female teacher maestra

Down

- 2. students estudiantes
- 3. good-bye adiós
- 4. My name is . . . Yo me llamo
- 6. I am estoy
- 8. happy feliz
- 9. male teacher maestro

CHAPTER 4: Review

2. Chant the "Spanish Vowels Chant" and color in the vowels as you chant! Be careful; they are not all vowels!

3. On each of the heads below, draw a face that shows how each person feels.

iEstoy feliz!

Now translate:

I am happy!

iEstoy triste!

Now translate:

I am sad!

iEstoy bien!

Now translate:

I am well/fine!

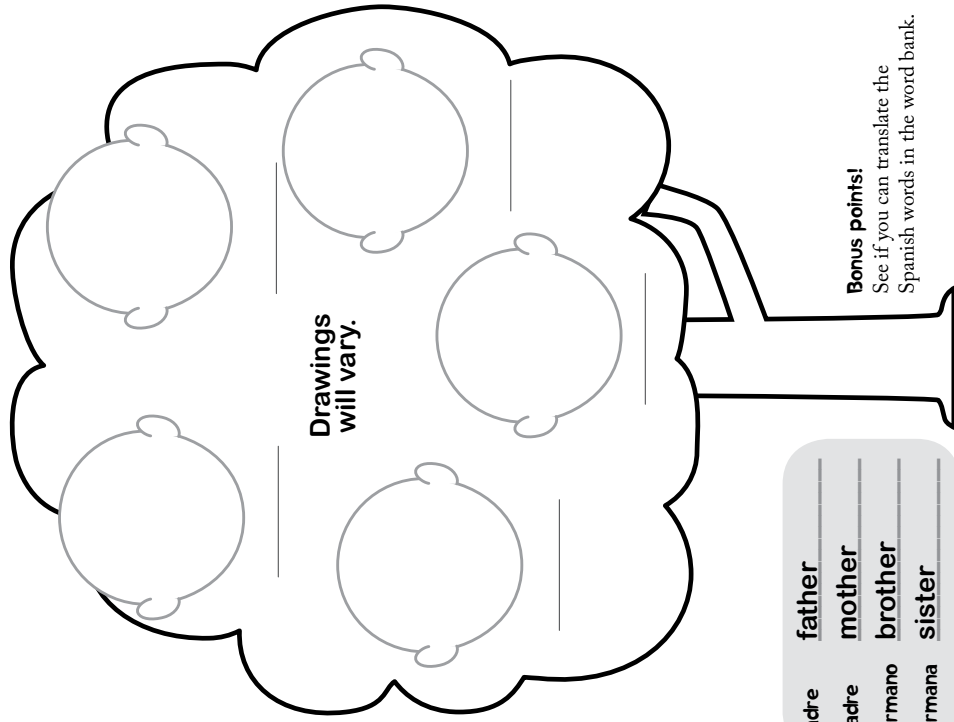

4. Now draw hair and hats on the heads above!

Drawings will vary.

CHAPTER 5: Family

Create a tree of your familia! Draw the faces of your family and label each one with the correct Spanish word (see the word bank below). You can add faces if you have more than five people in your family. You can even add your perro or gato!

padre	father
madre	mother
hermano	brother
hermana	sister

Bonus points!

See if you can translate the Spanish words in the word bank.

Latin!

Latin is a rich, ancient language, and is still very much alive in the modern languages that we speak today. It plays a vital role training students in grammar, in categorical thinking about how a language works, in logical reasoning, and greatly expands a student's English vocabulary. Caveat emptor (let the buyer beware), these programs have made Latin the favorite subject of many students around the nation!

Spanish!

After English, Spanish is arguably the most easily applied second language for North American students to learn and master. Classical Academic Press's Spanish curricula are a blend of immersion and grammar-based study. We start with songs and vocabulary and go on to teach Spanish grammar for conversation—from its parts to its whole—so that students will know how to make sentences as well as recognize them by ear.

Greek!

Greek is one of the mother tongues of the English language, with many English words having been derived from Greek. Greek is also a perfectly orderly language, ideal to help us understand the structure of any language. Koine Greek, which is the focus in our texts, is also the history-rich language of the New Testament.

Logic!

There are several branches of logic, and our three levels of curriculum focus on teaching informal and formal logic, as well as supplying students with the tools to create their own logical arguments. Each logic text recognizes that students are living in the 21st century and applies logical concepts to real-life, and often humorous, examples. Mastery of logic is a requisite skill for critical thinking in any discipline and for the classical learning education.

Bible!

If you would like to teach your students the narrative arc of the Bible and show them how God has been at work in His people since before creation, you will find God's Great Covenant to be a unique and excellent Bible curriculum. Taught from a covenantal and reformed theological perspective, and rooted in Scripture, you will find this series to be a blessing to your classroom, Sunday School, or family.

Poetry!

If you have ever felt mystified by poetry, this book will lead you step-by-step to an understanding and love of this branch of literature, guided by a gifted poet and teacher. This accessible curriculum demystifies the practice of reading a poem slowly and carefully, introduces students to the elements of poetry (such as imagery and metaphor), and highlights the historical forms that poems have taken (such as sonnet and open verse). Learn how absorbing the best words in the best order changes your relationship to ideas.

Resources – because we all could use a little help.

Here at Classical Academic Press we understand the need for thorough explanations, enjoyable practice materials, independent student activities, encouraging collaborations, and the means to ask questions of other teachers! We also understand that these needs will vary among teachers and students, as well as their teaching and learning styles, and that learning happens in community. Our goal is to provide for you the resources you need, so that our curriculum is easy to use and so that your student's studies are enjoyable, relevant, and complete. Here are just a sampling of the resources available to you:
