

About the author of this book:

ROBERT PENN WARREN is one of America's leading and most versatile writers. He won the Pulitzer Prize for his novel, All the King's Men, and the Edna St. Vincent Millay Award, the National Book Award and the Pulitzer Prize for Promises, a book of poetry.

Born in Kentucky in 1905, Mr. Warren lived there until he was fifteen. He entered Vanderbilt University at the age of sixteen to study for a scientific career but turned to literature instead, becoming a teacher and writer.

Mr. Warren is married to Eleanor Clark, the novelist; they have two children and their home is in Connecticut.

About the illustrator of this book:

WILLIAM T. MOYERS has made a specialty of Western history, particularly with respect to frontier life. The West has fascinated him since childhood and he has done the illustrations for several Landmarks dealing with this subject.

He was born in Atlanta, Georgia, and attended school there as well as in Colorado and California. At present he lives in Atlanta, Georgia.

For a complete list of Landmark books,
see inside of this jacket

Jacket illustration by Taylor Oughton