

How to Read Slowly Reading for Comprehension

By James W. Sire

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Chapter 1 – A Method in Our Madness: An Introduction to Reading with the Mind

- Is this Book for You?
- Models and Maps
- Where We Are Going?
- How to Read Slowly

Chapter 2 – Good-bye, Professor Ptolemy: Reading Nonfiction

- The Art of Reading: An Example
- “An Introduction to the Humanities with Prof. Ptolemy”
by Pamela McCorduck
- Clarifying the Vocabulary
- Catching the Allusions
- Four Primary Questions
- Identifying the Author’s World View
- Reading with a Christian Mind
- General Principles of Reading World-viewishly

Chapter 3 – That Time of Year: Reading Poetry

- Two Ways to Use Language
- Catching Reality in a Mirror
- The Simple and the Profound
- Of Skyscrapers and Poems
- The Whole Poem
- A Window on Other Worlds

Chapter 4 – The Fierce Pull of Blood: Reading Fiction

- Subcreators of Secondary Worlds
- Attention!
- The Secondary World by Bits and Pieces
- A Few More Bits and Pieces
- Putting It All Together

Chapter 5 – Cityscape: The Larger Context

- The Biographical Context
- The Literary Context
- The Historical Context
- The Ideological Context
- The Reader's Context
- The Christian Reader

Chapter 6 - A Time to Read: Knowing What to Read and When

- A Time for Reading
- Reading with a Purpose
- Selecting Good Books
- Reading Periodicals
- The Sea Is Awakening the Dolphins

Appendix: Reading with a Plan

- Reading Books with a Plan
- Selecting Periodicals

Notes and Index