

Theses on Worship
Notes Toward the Reformation of Worship
By James B. Jordan

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Introduction

Rite Reasons No. 3, September 1989

1. God's house is a house of prayer
2. The faithful worship of the true God does not come naturally to fallen man.
3. Worship is a command performance
4. Worship is family time
5. Worship should be beautiful

Rite Reasons No. 4, December 1989

6. There are both private and public worship events
7. The heart of worship is Amen to God's three gifts
8. Worship must be saturated with the Word

Rite Reasons No. 5, January 1990

Additional thoughts of the privacy of worship:
Matthew 6
Additional thoughts of the privacy of worship:
1 Corinthians 14
Concluding thoughts of the privacy of worship

Rite Reasons No. 6, March 1990

9. Love makes things beautiful
10. Worship is praise
11. Worship should be dramatic
12. Worship should have an element of play
13. Worship comes in a context of death

Rite Reasons No. 7, May 1990

14. Worship should honor the Word by using a precise and accurate translation, not the New International Version
  - Examples of Really Bad Translation
  - Dynamic Equivalence

Rite Reasons No. 8, July 1990

- Textual Arrogance
  - Generic English
  - Conclusions and Recommendations
15. There is nothing wrong with "Thee" and "Thou"
  16. The Psalter should be woven into the warp and woof of worship

Rite Reasons No. 13, February 1991

17. Worship takes place on the Day of the Lord
18. Worship is sacrificial
19. Worship is covenant renewal

Rite Reasons No. 14, April 1991

20. Worship is dialogue
21. Worship is sermonic
22. Eliminate the divided service
23. A note on the Tabernacle and liturgy

Rite Reasons No. 15, June 1991

Questions and Answers