Teaching Notes

Unit 1 (Lessons 1-8; Word lists 1 & 2)

Vocabulary review
Review characteristics of Latin nouns, verbs, and adjectives
Review definition of English and Latin nouns, verbs, and adjectives
Translation of present, future, and imperfect tenses

Lesson 4

An example of macaronic verse, "Possum Carmen", is included in the student book. You might want to save it for later.

Unit 2 (Lessons 9-14; Word Lists 3 & 4)

1st, 2nd, and 3rd declensions
Nominative case for a subject
Accusative case for a direct object
Nominative case for a predicate nominative

Unit 3 (Lessons 15-22; Word lists 5 & 6)

Review definition of adjective Gender Adjectives matching nouns in gender, number, and case

Lesson 20

The new chant (es, es, ei...) is the pattern for the fifth and last declension.

Unit 4 (Lessons 23-30; Word lists 7 & 8)

Verbs
principal parts
use of "ne"
commands
sum, esse, fui, futurum

It is probably enough for now for the children to be able to call the 1st principal part the present indicative and the 2nd part the infinitive, but it would be good for them to know that there are other infinitives and indicatives.

Lesson 28

Notice that hic and ille, along with their related forms, are in a different chant format than the rest of the chants in this book. The reason the chants for those words are done that way is because of tradition: they are traditionally learned that way because of the similarity of the endings in the different cases. Ille (its many forms included) is a pronoun and adjective meaning "that".

Translations

Translations are given at the back of the book, and are marked according to unit, beginning with Unit 4. They may be used for games, drills, or other extra practice. These are not included in the student book.

Unit 5 (Lessons 31-37; Word lists 9 & 10)

Dative case for indirect object mastery of verb synopsis introduction of "i" stems:is,is and es,is

Lesson 33

B) In the first example, "wife" is the object of the preposition "to". In the second example, "wife" is an indirect object. But both English sentences are translated into Latin in the same way: by using the dative case for "wife" with no preposition. This is an early example of a distinction in one language that doesn't exist in the other. Just because two things are handled the same in one language doesn't ensure that they will be in the other.

A neuter noun of the 3rd declension takes the regular characteristics of neuter nouns: The nominative and accusative forms are the same and the nominative and accusative plural ending is "a." They just take these characteristics in the context of the 3rd declension instead of the 2nd where neuter nouns have been encountered before.

An "i" stem merely has an "i" before the "um" in the genitive plural.

Unit 6 (Lessons 38-44; Word Lists 11 & 12)

Adverbs

Conjunctions: sed, et, -que

Lesson 39

A) A reminder: the stem of pulcher is shown to be pulchr- from its feminine form.

Lesson 41

#20 on List #12 is left blank for each student to choose from a Latin dictionary their own word that interests them. The supplement for this lesson that is included is an example of what might be done for A) in Lesson 41.

Unit 7 (Lessons 45-52; Word list 13)

Genitive of possession Predicate adjectives

Unit 8 (Lessons 53-60; Word list 14)

Perfect tense

Prepositions: per, in, trans

There are three tenses built on the perfect stem: the perfect tense, the pluperfect tense, and the future perfect tense. The perfect tense has been compared to the imperfect tense as a snapshot to a moving picture. The pluperfect has the sense of being before something in the past (I had stood). The future perfect has the sense of being in the past at some future time (I will have stood.)

LESSON 57

"Quintilius Varus, Give back my legions." The verb is in the imperative mood, Quintili Vari is in the vocative case.

Unit 9 (Lessons 61-68; Word lists 15 & 16)

Ablative of place in which 3rd-declension "i" stems: neuters ending in e, al, ar 3rd conjugation Ablative of time when

LESSON 64

You may not want to ask your students to handle a new conjugation this late in the year. If not, make these adjustments:

Skip: Lesson 64
Lesson 65 B) and C)
Lesson 66 the last 2 sentences of B), C) Lesson 67 the third column of A),
for B) Use these sentences as replacements.

1. Agricola animalia in stabulum portavit.
Lesson 68 A)
B) the second and fourth sentences

Even without vowel markings, you can tell a 2nd-conjugation verb from one in the 3rd conjugation since the first principal part in the 2nd conjugation ends in "eo," while the first principal part in the 3rd conjugation ends in just "o."

If the children have trouble with the present and future tenses of the 3rd conjugation, this mnenomic device might help: i, o, u are the ending vowels in the present tense, and the remaining vowels, a and e are used in the future tense.

LESSON 66

The ablative of time when or within which does not tell the duration of time. The accusative case is used for that.

Unit 10 (Lessons 69-74)

Grammar and vocabulary review Hic, haec, hoc

If you are foregoing the 3rd conjugation for now, make these changes in the unit.

6. lupus	wolf	lupi
7. audacia	boldness	audaciae
8. gladius	sword	gladii or gladi

C) Piscis is a word you learned in the first book which means $\underline{\text{fish}}$. There is a nice collection of Latin words related to Piscis:

piscator, piscatorius, piscatus, pisciculus, piscina, piscinarius, piscor, and piscosus.

You can tell whether they are nouns, verbs, or adjectives by how they are listed in a Latin dictionary. By using a dictionary, write each word, its definition, and the other information that you have learned about it on a line in the correct group. You will probably not recognize the verb from its Latin forms because it is a kind of verb that you have not learned about yet, but look for an English meaning that shows action. Piscis is done as an example.

NOUNS

1. piscis,is	a fish
2. piscator, oris	a fisherman
3. piscatus, us	fishes, a catch
