

Creation and Change
Genesis 1.1-2.4 In the Light of Changing Scientific Paradigms
By Douglas F. Kelly

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface

1. Creation: Why it Matters, and How it is Scientifically Viable

Technical and Bibliographical Notes

Questions for Study

2. Interpretation and Outline of the First Three Chapters of Genesis

Technical and Biographical Notes

Questions for Study

3. An Absolute Beginning

Technical and Bibliographical Notes

Questions for Study

4. Day One of Creation: Creation 'Out of Nothing' and the Beginning of the Formative Process

Technical and Bibliographical Notes

Questions for Study

5. Creation of Angels and 'the Gap Theory'

Technical and Bibliographical Notes

Questions for Study

6. 'Days' of Creation - Their Biblical Meaning

Technical and Bibliographical Notes

Questions for Study

7. The Age of the World and the Speed of Light

Technical and Bibliographical Notes

Questions for Study

8. The Age of the World and Physical Chronometers

Technical and Bibliographical Notes

Questions for Study

9. Days Two and Three of Creation: Separations Resulting in Air and Dry Land

Technical and Bibliographical Notes

Questions for Study

10. Days Four and Five of Creation: Additions to the Created Order - Luminaries, Fish and Fowl

Technical and Bibliographical Notes

Questions for Study

11. Day Six of Creation: Mankind, the Crown of Creation

Technical and Bibliographical Notes

Questions for Study

12. The Sabbath Day and the Orientation of the Whole Created Order Towards Worship of God

Technical and Bibliographical Notes

Questions for Study

Bibliography

Scripture Index

Person's Index

Subject Index