Synopsis

In 1878, Ed Muldie and his three sons leave Kentucky to take advantage of free land offered by the United States government through the Homestead Act. They settle in Nicodemus, Kansas, and build a dugout home to live in for the winter.

During the harsh winter, the people of Nicodemus are saved from starvation by Osage Indians who bring them food. The following spring, Mr. Muldie travels ahead to find a place to build a new home away from the flat prairie. While living by themselves in the dugout, the three boys narrowly escape a prairie fire. When a letter from Mr. Muldie arrives, the three boys must travel 150 miles alone to be with their father.

Wagon Wheels Study Guide

What would you do if you woke up one night and found a rattlesnake lying next to you? _____

4. To help pass time on long journeys people sometimes listen to the radio, listen to tapes, or play games. The Muldie boys did not have any of these things. How might they have passed the time instead? _____

What are some things that you like to do that require no electricity or any toys?

5. How do you think Mr. Muldie felt when he saw his boys walking toward his new home? _____

Dig Deeper:

6. The boys had to walk 150 miles to meet their father. If you were asked to do this, do you think you could? _____

7. Ecclesiastes 4:9–12 says:

Two are better than one, because they have a good return for their work: If one falls down, his friend can help him up. But pity the man who has no one to help him up! Also, if two lie down together, they will keep warm. But how can one keep warm alone? Though one may be overpowered, two can defend themselves. A cord of three strands is not quickly broken.

Explain these verses in your own words. _____

Do you think any of the boys could have made the 150 mile journey alone? Why or why not? _____

8. How did the boys help each other on the long journey? _____

9. Johnny, Willie, and Little Brother may have felt alone and afraid when their father left them and on their long journey, but they were not alone.

Deuteronomy 31:6 says:

Be strong and courageous. Do not be afraid or terrified . . . , for the LORD your God goes with you; he will never leave you nor forsake you.

How could knowing this verse have helped the Muldie boys? _____

How might it help you to remember this verse when you are alone and afraid?

Chapters 1 & 2

Questions:

1. The Muldie family moved to Kansas to take advantage of free land offered under the Homestead Act.
2. Mr. Muldie said that living in a hole in the ground was for animals only. He offered to build houses for everyone in town.
3. The music, the singing, and the good food like cornbread made the dugout feel like a home. Answers will vary.
4. It would be hard to survive the Kansas winter. The winter was mean because it was very cold and very windy.
5. The boys had heard stories about Indians and thought their lives were in danger.
6. The Indians brought them the food they needed and wood to burn. Answers will vary on the second part of this question.
7. The Indians had food so they shared with the people of Nicodemus.
8. He wanted his sons to speak well of and defend the Indians when they heard people saying bad things about Indians. Answers will vary on the second part of this question.

Chapters 3 & 4

Questions:

1. The boys hunted, fished, cooked, swept the dugout clean, and baked their own cornbread. They made a wagon for Little Brother and never let him out of their sight.
2. Johnny saw the deer running toward the river for protection.
